Fall 2018 Studio Presentations

Department of Landscape Architecture, Blake Hall, Cook Campus

Monday 12/10, 11:00 am – 2:00 pm

Sustainable Drumthwacket, Princeton

Clients: Drumthwacket Foundation, New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection

Drumthwacket Estate, the official residence of the governor of New Jersey, has the potential to serve as a home, welcoming meeting place, and model of public estate management.

First Year Graduate Studio & Suburbia Transformed, Blake Hall, Room #243 (2nd floor pin up space)

Friday 12/14, 2:00 pm – 5:00 pm

Environmental Vision for the State of New Jersey

This is a challenging experiment due to the complexity of environmental conditions and a challenging legal and administrative framework in New Jersey. However, academia is the place for visionary forward thinking, and developing new concepts that may hold merit for the future.

Junior Environmental Planning Studio, Blake Hall, Room #147

Monday, 12/17, 3:30 pm – 6:30 pm

The Rutgers Quads on Livingston Campus

Dormitory courtyard design project from a client perspective; creating a connection to the Rutgers Ecological Preserve.

Sophomore Studio, Blake Hall, Room #246

Monday 12/17, 1:00 pm – 3:30 pm

White-tailed deer and Franklin Township

Franklin Township has asked the Geodesign Studio to explore ways that design can reshape their deer problem. The exploration will need to test a variety of solutions with a final presentation that is not a singular answer but a demonstration of options.

Third Year Graduate GeoDesign Studio, Blake Hall, Room #231

Tuesday 12/18, 12:30am – 5:30 pm

Monuments to the Passaic

The class explored concepts such as memory, monument, and heritage and what we individually and as a society deem historically significant and worthy of remembrance.

Second Year Graduate Studio, Presentation will take place in Newark

Tuesday 12/18, 1:00 pm – 5:00 pm

Bridging Gowanus - Affordable Housing & Waterfront Access, Brooklyn NY

The studio focused on three main sites: The Gowanus Green Site (Public Place), a former gas plant that will be developed for housing; The Degraw Street Bridge, where we will consider the question of how open space can “bridge” the canal; and Wycoff Gardens, a NYCHA site where two new buildings will be developed as part of the NYCHA NextGen Plan.

Senior Housing and Open Space Studio, Blake Hall, Room #148
